Loving Where We Live, One Power Pole At A Time

By Councilmember Mike Shelton

I remember as a young boy going to visit my grandparents in Northern Utah. Occasionally we would take a small detour through Brigham City on the way. We would drive down the beautiful tree-lined main street. We didn't take this route for the trees, but for the variety of creatively painted fire hydrants that lined either side of Main Street. We looked forward to spotting the little hydrants disguised as characters along our drive. Those little detours have become some of my fondest childhood memories.

If you were to ask most residents of Cottonwood Heights where "Main Street" is in our city, the most common answer would be Fort Union Boulevard. While Fort Union has many beautiful characteristics, if you were to stand at the west entrance to the city and look east, you could not help but notice a forest of enormous power poles.

Our Fort Union "Main Street" may be more visually defined by high capacity power lines than any other city in the valley.

In his book "Love Where You Live" Peter Kageyama describes an urban plight that we in Cottonwood Heights are all too familiar with. Speaking specifically of power lines, he says, "Once they are out in view, it is easy to justify hanging more of them until they loom over us like dour drapes."

He continues, "Though we become accustomed to pervasive ugliness in our communities, there is still a psychic and emotional cost to this negativity. We don't realize it, but such visual cues impact our attitudes towards each other and our work, and our overall feelings about ourselves. Like the 'broken window theory' that applies to small, anti-social or criminal behaviors, these small psychic cuts accumulate over time and can bring people and their cities down. Each negative act makes the next easier, and this negative accounting can grow rapidly once it reaches a tipping point."

In a manner similar to the accumulating negative acts, Kageyama says we "...can repair our communities one act at a time...I have seen the power of the small thing, the often silly and dismissible idea that makes people smile. There is a game-changing power in these small things."

We have large power poles running down the length of our "Main Street." Most of us would prefer not having them there, and we would like them removed, so long as that did not also mean that we lost the electrical power that is delivered over them. We would like to see them buried,

CH Arts Council Presents: Seven Brides For Seven Brothers

In 1850s Oregon, Adam goes into town seeking a wife to run the household that consists of just himself and his six brothers. There he meets and marries the spunky Milly, who tries to reform the unruly brothers into presentable suitors. After kidnapping six women and getting stuck in the high mountains over the winter, the brothers learn a few hard lessons about love.

S e v e n Brides for Seven Brothers is a western romance musical based on the 1954 film. It's hoedown fun for the whole family, and stars Natalie Killpack as Milly and Josiah Rupp as Adam.

Rebecca Kitchen will direct, while Jannalee Hunsaker will serve as musical director and McKenzie Maag will choreograph the production.

The play will be performed at Butler Middle School on July 29, 30 and August 1, 4, 5, 6 at 7:30 p.m.

To purchase tickets, go to www.arts.ch.utah.gov. ■

History Question of the Month

During the summer of 1885, "Mr. Beck," an 80-year-old man who lived near the mouth of Big Cottonwood Canyon went for a walk. When he failed to return, family and friends began to search for him. What were the results of this search?

but this would come at a significant, almost insurmountable cost.

City staff has explored what we can do to our Fort Union "Main Street" to transform it

Main Street. City officials recently approached Rocky Mountain Power with a unique proposal to allow artists to paint the bottom section of the large poles running down Fort Union. Rocky Mountain Power has never allowed

"[We are soliciting] submissions from artists to transform what is currently a liability into a community asset."

into a place of city pride. Several interesting ideas have been proposed, such as planting trees beneath the lines to reduce the visual impact.

I believe the city has hit on an idea that I hope will bring the same kind of fond memories to our city that I obtained during my childhood drives down Brigham City's this kind of painting before. They are rightly very careful about what they permit to be done with their poles. While appropriate care and maintenance must be maintained, Rocky Mountain Power also wanted to be a positive partner in the community. With appropriate restrictions, they have agreed to allow the city to undertake a project to have artists paint a large number of the poles. We are so grateful for their willingness to let us try.

The city and the Cottonwood Heights Arts Council are beginning a project to solicit submissions from artists to transform what is currently a liability into a community asset. Maybe this is only a small thing; a silly and dismissible idea. Even so, there is "...a game-changing power in these small things." Small positive things accumulate to make a difference, and great public pride can come from turning lemons into lemonade.

I am really excited to turn Fort Union Boulevard into a significant outdoor art gallery. We hope that many poles will be painted over time. I hope that someday in the future, people will reminisce about a trip down Fort Union to see the painted poles. Little things, one at a time; that is what we can do. ■

Whitmore Library Offers Summer Fitness Programs

In keeping with the Summer Library Program theme of fun and fitness, July offers opportunities for all ages to exercise minds and bodies at Whitmore Library.

Tuesday mornings, adults and teens are invited to do yoga at the library with free classes at 10:30 a.m. On Thursdays at 7 p.m. in July, the library will offer free BollyX dance bikes to the library on Saturday, July 16 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. for the Whitmore Library Bike Fair. Molina Healthcare and Cottonwood Cyclery will provide activities including fitness classes. Teens and adults will enjoy learning Bollywood-style dance moves while burning calories and getting fit! For kids, there are opportunities to move and dance. Mondays at 10:30 a.m., all ages of children are invited to "Ready, Set, Move" for half an hour of movement activities including dance, yoga, and more! On Tuesdays at 4:30 p.m., kids (and many of their parents) will be moving and shaking at "Zumba Kids."

Biking is a great way to stay fit and healthy for the whole family. Everyone is invited to bring their bike safety checks and tips, bike licensing, helmet fittings, an obstacle course, and drawings and prizes. Donate your old bike that day to the Salt Lake City Bike Collective and get a free bike helmet, while supplies last.

Shopping for healthy foods and making healthy eating choices is also an important part of keeping fit both mentally and physically. The library has partnered with Molina Healthcare to provide the "Healthy Shopping on a Budget" workshop on Tuesday, July 12 at 7 p.m. to help you learn about healthy foods and how to shop for them. Topics will include navigating the grocery store, using coupons, understanding food advertising, and shopping for organic and natural foods.

As always, Whitmore Library offers summer reading programs and learning opportunities for teens. Go to www.slcolibrary.org for more information. ■

Updates from the District June 2016 Administrative Report

Curbside Glass Recycling Program Coming to Cottonwood Heights

This summer, a subscription-based Curbside Glass Recycling Program will begin. This monthly collection program will be managed by Wasatch Front Waste & Recycling District, and collected by Momentum Recycling. The start-up fee for the gray glass recycling bin is $45, and service is $8 per month. Service to your neighborhood will be dependent upon acquiring a minimum number of subscribers in your area. Momentum Recycling will be in your neighborhoods during the next month to answer questions about the program. Contact WFRD, at (385) 468-6325, for more information, and to sign up.

National Garbage Person Day

June 17th was National Garbage Person Day – a day to recognize and celebrate those individuals who work to make our homes and cities livable. These people have a dirty job, but they enjoy their work because they are providing a vitally essential service to the communities to keep them clean and free from preventable health hazards.

Area Clean-Up Schedule

Our annual Area Clean-Up Program is currently underway. Cottonwood Heights residents can expect the Area Clean-Up containers to show up in their neighborhoods during a three week period, starting around August 5th. Residents will receive a mailer indicating the specific date the containers will be in their area.

International Plastic Bag Free Day

On July 3rd, Wasatch Front Waste & Recycling Day will join other organizations around the world in support of International Plastic Bag Free Day (<http://www.plasticbagfreeday.org/>). There are a lot of good ways to celebrate, and the easiest requires a simple resolution from each individual. Even if just for one day, choose paper over plastic, or even better bring your own bags to the retailers to pick up your goods. Some stores even offer discounts or other perks for the customers that bring their own!

Watch Out For Summer Wildfire Fuel As You Celebrate

By UFA Assistant Fire Chief Mike Watson

A wet spring grows with the use of fireworks this summer. Take native grasses and bushes the time to make a safe plan for the use of legal at a phenomenal rate. These “ladder fuels” are then able to communicate fire to the taller bushes and eventually the trees. The wet spring we have just experienced increases the potential for urban-interface fires this year. When the tall grasses cure and dry out, the smallest of sparks can cause a devastating fire in our foothills and on our mountains. Fires caused by fireworks are half of the potential problem. Injuries are very common and in most cases, are avoidable. According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission, the most-injured body parts caused by fireworks are: Hand and Fingers (36%), Heads and Faces (22%) and Eyes (16%).

This month, we will have two major fireworks celebrations. Please be responsible with the use of fireworks this summer. Take the time to make a safe plan for the use of legal

Fireworks Restrictions In Cottonwood Heights

Fireworks may only be discharged between July 1-7 and July 21-27 between the hours of 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. On July 4 and July 24, those hours are extended to midnight.

The discharge of most fireworks within 300 feet of any wild land interface area is subject to a class B misdemeanor citation. Class C fireworks are banned within 50 feet of restricted areas.

For a map of these areas and other fireworks restrictions, visit www.ch.utah.gov.

fireworks and discuss fireworks safety with your children. Make sure you follow your plan if you use fireworks on the 4th and 24th of July.

Cottonwood Heights has been very proactive with fireworks ordinances (see inset). The reasons for these ordinances are three-fold:

The first issue is safety for all of our residents. Fireworks are fun, but they are not worth personal injury. Second is the threat to the urban interface areas within and to the east of our city. Such fires can be phenomenally costly. The third reason for fireworks ordinances is so all of our residents can understand where in the city fireworks are allowed or banned and what types of fireworks are legal. Check our website to make sure fireworks are legal in your area before buying or using them. Let's all do our part to prevent injuries and urban-interface fires this summer!

For more fireworks information and general safety check-lists, visit websites such as www.cpsc.gov/en/Safety-Education/Safety-Education-Centers/Fireworks/.

Thanks, and stay safe. ■

New Public Works Director, Operations Manager

Cottonwood Heights has hired Matt Shipp as the city's new public works director. Shipp steps in as Cottonwood Heights transitions from contracted services into a self-providing model.

Matt Shipp lives in Lehi with his wife and four children. He previously worked for Epic Engineering and has public works and city engineering experience at Highland and South Jordan.

Shipp replaces Mike Allen who has served as the city's public works director for the past seven years. Allen assumes the newly created position of public works operations manager going forward. ■

New City Recorder/HR Manager

Cottonwood Heights has hired Melanie Marsh as its new city recorder and human resources manager. Marsh replaces Linda Dunlavy, who has served as city recorder, human resources manager and deputy city manager at various times since Cottonwood Heights incorporated in 2005.

Marsh lives in American Fork and has recently worked as HR manager for the cities of Payson and Idaho Falls. She previously worked as deputy city recorder for the city of American Fork. ■

Police Support Specialist

Julie Sutch joins the CH Police Department as our newest support specialist. Julie lives in Pleasant Grove and has previously worked for the Lindon and American Fork police departments. She has 16 years of law enforcement experience. ■

Thanks, Sheila!

Police Support Supervisor Sheila Jennings retired from duty in May. Sheila served for the past seven years, administering to all the needs of our police department. She was honored during a luncheon on May 25, where she was presented with a framed collection of police memorabilia.

Thanks for your service to our community, Sheila. You will be missed. ■

CH Student Profiles

Brighton celebrates Class of 2016

A parcel of wisdom given by a student speaker at Brighton High's commencement exercises on June 4 at the Maverik Center seemed so fitting, considering the accomplishments of the Class of 2016. Senior Class President Dru Turley reminded his fellow graduates — who claimed numerous state championships, raised more than $80,000 for charity, and earned a whopping $10.9 million in scholarship offers — "that you won't remember how high you started — but how high you finish." Principal Charisse Hilton lauded the 482 graduates for their achievements in the classroom, as well. Not only did the school have one of the state's highest participation rates in Advanced Placement classes, the AP test-taking Bengals scored a 3 or higher 82 percent of the time. More than 90 percent of graduating seniors will pursue some form of post-secondary education, and more than a handful have been accepted to such stellar schools as Stanford, Pepperdine, and the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York. Another student has earned a U.S. Senatorial Appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy.

Bengal wins $2,500 Canyons Education Foundation Scholarship

Brighton High's Emma Critchlow is proof that it's never too late to start again. Once she put her mind to it, nothing could stop this Brighton High senior from crossing the commencement stage with her peers — not homelessness, financial constraints, nor even the daunting task of making up a year's worth of school credits lost due to chronic truancy. Critchlow is now poised to study dental hygiene at Weber State University with an eye toward enrolling in dental school and specializing in orthodontics. And she'll have a little help paying for it with a $2,500 "Rising Star" scholarship from the Canyons Education Foundation. See the Canyons District YouTube channel for a video on Emma's achievements. See: <https://youtu.be/6oUK79-kbHs>

Bengal Boys' Lacrosse Wins State Trophy

The rain disappeared, the clouds cleared and the crowd cheered. On Saturday, May 21, it couldn't have been a nicer evening for the state Class A lacrosse championships at Brighton High — or a more exciting finish to the season. Juan Diego High started out strong, ending the first half with a healthy lead, 5-2. But the Bengals fought back, scoring six goals in the second half, and only giving up one. The final score was 8-6. Bengal Tennison Schmidt was named the Most Valuable Player of the championship game. The Bengals also won the game on the school's new artificial turf. The field was installed last summer and was finished just in time for the 2015 football season.

Bengals Win Water Polo Championships

Cats in the water! Whoever said cats can't swim has never been to Brighton High. Swimming isn't the only pool sport that the Bengals dominated this year. Both of the school's water polo teams — girls and boys — nabbed 5A state titles this year. The club teams claimed the trophies in May. ■

Cottonwood Heights Resident Appointed to Lead State Recreation Office

Kenneth "Tom" Adams has been selected to lead the Utah State Office of Outdoor Recreation. Tom is an avid outdoorsman who lives in Cottonwood Heights with his wife Gwendolyn and their three young boys. Tom is a graduate of the University of Utah with a degree in commercial recreation. Congratulations, Tom! ■

Beck left his house the morning of July 29 and went for a walk along the hill near his house. When he didn't return, family and friends began a search that lasted several days without any sign of him. On August 4, Beck wandered back into his home in a very weak condition. He told his family that he had wandered around for two days and nights and had several times heard people calling his name, but was too weak and exhausted to respond or make his way toward searchers. After resting for a long period of time, he said he continued walking, as his failing strength would allow, until he finally came in sight of his home, a week after he went missing. ■

Butler Kids Ring The Bell

Students at Butler Elementary School participated in a bell-ringing activity to mark the closing of their old building.

The old Butler school is being demolished over the summer prior to the opening of the new Butler Elementary School in August.

The bell is located across the street from the current school on Fort Union Boulevard. It is the bell that once hung atop the old historic one-room Butler School, built in the 1890s.

The "Friends of Butler" citizens group organized the event. The group is commissioning a true-to-life bronze sculpture of a bobcat to be placed in the lobby at the new school and is raising funds to finance the effort. Find out more at www.facebook.com/ButlerBobcatFriends/. ■

CH Supports Independents Week 2016

Local First Utah is a nonprofit organization with a mission to empower and recognize the value and vitality of locally owned, independent businesses to our communities and our economy.

Cottonwood Heights has joined more than 30 other Utah cities in support of "Independents Week" during the first seven days of July. The city council signed a proclamation in support of the week-long celebration on June 14.

Local First Utah is a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization that was organized in 2005 by a small number of volunteer business owners and community-minded residents.

More than 4,000 locally owned and independent business partners participate in Local First Utah.

The program is open to all Utah businesses that are at least 51% locally owned and make their business decisions independently. Registration is free for business partners.

While recognizing the benefits of national chain companies in our state, Local First notes that nearly four times the amount of money spent at local retailers is returned to our own economy, compared to dollars spent at national chains. ■

Prepare Your Taste Buds for Adventure!

Cottonwood Heights is hosting its first restaurant tour of the city on August 20-31, 2016. The "Bites in the Heights" event allows foodies to choose from a variety of dining options and the chance to try something new. From sizzling fajitas and delicious curries to creative entrees and international fare – it's all on the table during Bites in the Heights.

Visit participating restaurants during the event and choose from the prix-fixe menus for either a $5/$10 lunch or $15/$20 dinner. Share photos of your restaurant visit or menu items on Instagram and Twitter with #CHFoodie for a chance to win gift cards to your favorite dining spots. Visit www.CHBusiness.org for participating restaurants. ■
