Why "buying local" is an important tool for city finances

Mayor Mike Weichers

One of the most important reasons to support our local businesses, other than wanting all of them to be successful, is contributing to the retail sales tax revenue the city receives. This revenue is crucial to the services we provide. The police department, Unified Fire Authority, road maintenance, snow removal, and many other vital services depend on revenue generated through retail sales tax.

During our previous budget year, sales tax revenue exceeded property tax revenue for the first time in our city's history. This sustained growth in sales tax each year has allowed city leaders to not raise property taxes in more than five years, while more than half of Salt Lake County municipalities raised property tax rates last year alone.

Retail sales taxes in Cottonwood Heights are assessed at a rate of 7.25 percent. One percent of this rate is assessed by the city, with half of this revenue going back to the state and distributed back statewide, based on population.

Sales tax revenues represented 34 percent of total city governmental revenue during our last fiscal year. The good news for our current fiscal year is continued year-over-year sales tax growth of more than 4 percent.

If you like to shop online, you can still support Cottonwood Heights. As long as your delivery address is in Cottonwood Heights boundaries, the city receives the same amount of revenue from online orders as when you buy goods directly from a Cottonwood Heights business.

We love our local businesses and provide networking opportunities through the Cottonwood Heights Business Association. We conduct ribbon-

Hillside Plaza update: City continues to complete due diligence process

The city council held a public hearing on Tuesday, Feb. 21, to receive public input about issuing bonds to finance the Hillside Plaza shopping center property, which consists of about 10 acres on the southeast corner of Fort Union Blvd. and 2300 E. (excluding, however, the Walgreens parcel). The purchase price is $14 million.

The city council (acting as the governing body of the Community Development and Renewal Agency, or CDRA) is continuing to conduct a due diligence process, which includes evaluating environmental and property conditions, tenant leases, funding options, and other pertinent acquisition information. This is in conjunction with the purchase agreement the CDRA signed on Oct. 31, 2022.

As a reminder, the current Hillside Plaza property owner has been interested in selling the property for several years, and multiple developers proposed mixed-use (housing and commercial) projects with significant housing density on the site.

The CDRA provided direction to evaluate the purchase to implement the Fort Union Boulevard Master Plan goals, which include creating a more livable place with a higher quality of life, providing a balanced mixture of land uses in the area, and implementing both transportation and pedestrian-oriented mixed-use development to foster a vibrant and positive "town center" environment, with public spaces to complement both commercial and residential investments. ■

The cost of crime: How those committing crimes affect many other residents

Police chief Robby Russo

Crime harm refers to the negative impacts of crime on individuals and society. While crime is often seen as a harm in its own right, the negative impacts related to any one incident will differ by the type of crime as well as the victim's perspective.

These harms include a wide range of outcomes for both individuals, such as financial loss and physical harm, and for communities and wider society, such as fear of crime and increased use of health and victim services.

I want to highlight one local case to provide perspective. A man and woman with substance abuse problems living in our city went on a crime spree. The chain of events began with the abuse of a vulnerable adult, resulting in charges and an arrest warrant.

While police were looking for this twosome, they committed numerous other crimes in the city, including significant thefts from city retailers.

Before officers could arrive, the couple escaped in a vehicle they stole in Cottonwood Heights. The following day, officers observed the stolen car and attempted a traffic stop. The woman was driving and fled from the officers, then crashed into another motorist trying to get to work.

Not only did the collision result in substantial property damage, but the car caught fire and was totaled, further victimizing the owner. The pair was arrested at the scene and taken to jail, but the saga continued. The woman claimed to have swallowed heroin (she had not) and was transported by ambulance to Intermountain Medical Center in Murray, where valuable emergency room staff and physicians assessed her. This process took several hours.

Eventually, officers had other business and had to leave. I'm pleased that Representative Ivory has introduced HB 254, which makes it a crime if "at the time of the actor's arrest for an offense, the actor states to a law enforcement officer that the actor ingested drugs before the actor's arrest."

If we count the number of people impacted by these two criminals and total the property loss in two days, it's overwhelming. To properly address crime and the issues it causes, we need to understand the cost and remedies. With few exceptions, crime is going to have a decidedly negative effect on a community.

The reality is that jail space is limited and the sheriff needs funding for inmates, renovations and staff. Incarceration isn't always the answer and, in my opinion, solves nothing unless it works in combination with mental health providers, substance abuse programs and appropriate prosecution.

Crime's only positive quality is bringing people together in acting against it, but it's expensive. We can argue that we're already paying for it: People worry about their safety, and money isn't the only approach. Every community is going to be different, and it's not just a police problem. It's a community problem rooted in prevention. ■

Subscription green waste program to resume Wednesday, March 15

Wasatch Front Waste & Recycling District's weekly green waste collection program will resume Wednesday, March 15.

Residents can sign up and help divert green waste, which will then be processed into mulch they can buy from the Salt Lake Valley and Trans-Jordan landfills.

A one-time $70 start-up fee to pay for the can is required. The annual cost is $126, which is less expensive than buying an additional black garbage can (a $234 annual cost).

To get more information on the green waste program and subscribe, visit wasatchfrontwaste.org/services-requests/additional-subscription/green-waste. ■

Reminder: Do not bag recyclables or they could end up in the landfill

Do not put recyclable items in plastic bags before putting them in your blue recycling can. The recycling processing facilities do not accept these bags, and the recycling could end up in the landfill.

Contact Wasatch Front Waste sustainability coordinator McKenna Tupa'i at 385-468-6337 or mtupai@wasatchfrontwaste.org if you have specific recycling questions. ■

Trim your trees and landscaping this spring per county code

Spring is the perfect time of year to trim your trees!

Salt Lake County ordinance 14.12.050 and Cottonwood Heights municipal code 14.12.050 require residents to trim trees and landscaping that hang over the street pavement to a minimum height of 13.5 feet above the pavement. Following these guidelines helps Wasatch Front Waste & Recycling District trucks navigate through your neighborhood and empty your cans without potential damage to your trees and their trucks.

To review Cottonwood Heights' code about landscaping overhanging street pavement, visit cottonwoodheights.municipalcodeonline.com. ■

Join the Volunteers in Parks (VIP) program to keep our city parks clean!

City councilmember Doug Petersen recalls that when his parents moved to Butlerville (now Cottonwood Heights) nearly 70 years ago, there were miles of orchards, sagebrush-covered hills, and chicken and mink ranches.

"The closest thing to a park was the playground at Butler Elementary School," he says.

Today, as Cottonwood Heights has grown, parks and open spaces are more valuable than ever, and the city needs help maintaining them.

The Parks, Trails and Open Space Committee, along with city council liaison Doug Petersen, is seeking residents to join the Volunteers in Parks (VIP) program and serve as park leaders for the following parks:

- Antczak Park
- Bywater Park
- Butler Park
- Crestwood Park
- Ferguson Park
- Golden Hills Park
- Mountview Park
- Mill Hollow Park

Park leaders would gather volunteers to walk through the park and report any maintenance or graffiti issues, pick up trash, and note other site-specific items.

These leaders would determine the schedule that works best. For example, a crew of volunteers might walk through the park one day a month, or a smaller group might visit the park weekly.

If you'd like to serve as a park leader or volunteer on a team, call parks and facilities manager Andrew Davis at 801-943-3190 (ext. 157) or email him anytime at andrew@cottonwoodheights.com. ■

1, 2023, are eligible to apply for preschool. Students must be 5 years old by Sept. 1, 2023, to participate in kindergarten.

Four Brighton High School athletes earn Academic All-State status in winter sports

For achieving high scores in both athletics and academics, four Brighton High School Bengals are among the 37 Canyons District students to earn Academic All-State awards in winter sports.

Among them are the first cheerleaders to be honored now that cheer is a Utah High School Activities Association-sanctioned sport.

Academic All-State award winners have a 4.0 cumulative GPA or meet an index score that takes into account a student's grades and college-entrance exam scores. A student with a 3.9 GPA, for example, would also need to score a 30 or higher on the ACT in order to qualify.

Brighton High School swimmer makes history by earning first Unified Sports trophy

Unified Sports, a Special Olympics initiative to cultivate inclusive communities, is experiencing serious growth in Utah, and students like Brighton High School's Dylan Etherington are reaping the benefits.

Dylan earned a first-place finish in the mixed 50 free at the state's first unified 5A state swim championship.

And Dylan wasn't the only Etherington to earn recognition. His father, Brighton swim Coach Todd Etherington, was once again named the 5A men's swim Coach of the Year.

Propelled by two first-place relay teams — Drake Doyle, Austin Partridge, Gavin Smith, and Bridger Nielson who won the 200 and 400 freestyle relays — the Bengal boys came in second place behind Skyline High. The girls performed admirably as well, with an individual title going to Hanna Sasivarevic in the 200 freestyle event. ■
